President's Message

Wow! Is it October already? Having just celebrated our accomplishments for the last two years at the NFRW Convention in Orlando, Florida, we must crow about AWARDS! With more than 1000 ladies attending the convention from all over the country, the Texas Clubs are a force to be reckoned with. The TFRW Women rocked the house with lots of awards! Did you know that you all are part of a well-known group that also receives a lot of compliments from other state federations?

Texas was one of only 28 states from across the country to achieve the Excellence Level of the Betty Heitman award. This award is for states that demonstrate excellence in membership development, campaign activities, programs, community service, and state functions.

TFRW won the National Social Media category in Public Relations.

Sixty-three TFRW clubs received the prestigious Club Achievement Awards: 52 of them Diamond, 4 Gold, 5 Silver and 2 Bronze. Of course, CLRW is among the prestigious Diamond Club winners!

TFRW also won the Literacy and Education Award Outstanding Participation!

Finally, TFRW won the prestigious Ronald Reagan Award for the fourth time in a row!

Congratulations - YOUR hard work, diligence and REPORTING OF HOURS made this all possible!

The NFRW elected officers for 2026-27 are President-Martha Jenkins, NC; 1st VP-Karen Newton, TX; 2nd VP-Lorie Legere, OK; 3rd VP-Keri Abernathy, MS; 4th VP-Judy Barlow, AL; Treasurer-Heidi Parker Martin, LA; Secretary-Cindy Casaus, AZ. Members at Large - Christine Peters, NH, Chelle Davis, VA, Barbara Price, FL.

We are getting ready to celebrate our TFRW Convention in San Antonio this month. Get ready to celebrate winning fantastic accomplishments as Clubs are recognized within our amazing State Federation!

YOU ALL are such an amazing group of Ladies and Gentlemen - I am so honored and blessed to serve you.

Constitutional Amendment Election

WHY VOTE?

In Texas, this election day, we are voting on 17 Amendments to our Constitution; this is a huge responsibility. The responsibility is to be an informed voter. As a transplant to Texas, I decided to do a little research into my new state's Constitution and any similarities to our U. S. Constitution. The preamble to our Texas Constitution begins with "Humbly invoking the blessings of Almighty God, the people of the State of Texas, do ordain and establish this Constitution". (Sound like "We The People"?). In Article 1 section 2 it states, "All political power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority, and instituted for their benefit."

As citizens of this state, we owe it to ourselves to vote, as we ARE 'the people'. On our website you can find the link to read all 17 of the Amendments. Under each one there is a link for "more information". These are very interesting links as they take you to Texas Legislature Online where the history of each Amendment is recorded. For example, the 1st Amendment on our ballot was first recorded on the site on Feb 25, 2025-it was received by the Secretary of the Senate-and you can follow it through to the final stop on June 2, 2025 when it was filed with the Secretary of State to be put on the ballot. Article 17, section 1 of the Texas Constitution lays out how an Amendment gets on our ballot: "the proposal for submission must be approved by a vote of two thirds of all members elected to each House, entered by yeas and nays on the journals. The explanatory statement shall be prepared by the Secretary of State and shall be approved by the Attorney General. If a majority (of the people) vote yes (for) the Amendment, it will become law. If a majority vote no, the Constitution will stay the same."

And don't forget! YOU are the backup to your precinct chair! Refer your friends to our website to be informed and have them download the membership application while they are there! God Bless Texas, God Bless the United State and God Bless Charlie's legacy!

Congratulations to CLRW Member Anita Valdez as she was sworn in as Chair of the Comal County Republican Party!

The Supreme Court of the United States (SCOTUS) will have a busy schedule for the 2025-2026 term. Below are excerpts of the article written by Brian Duignan that lists the number of cases pending and highlights the statuses of four of the major cases (with updates based upon oral arguments). There are no surprises here; however, the cases are a mirror of the issues that are so divisive in our wonderful country. Please take the time to read these four cases. Our power is in our ability to have informed, objective conversations with those who support our point of view and those who don't. Be the positive, calm source of factual truths. I am counting on you!

Four Major Supreme Court Cases from the 2025–26 Term

Written by Brian Duignan (edited by Barbara Harrell to shorten and clarify)

The Supreme Court of the United States will hear a number of significant cases in its 2025–26 term, which began on October 6, 2025 and will end in late June or early July 2026. By early October of 2025 the Court had agreed to hear 39 cases. Below are details of four major cases to be argued before the Supreme Court during its 2025–26 term.

Chiles v. Salazar

Argued on October 7, 2025. In 2019 the Colorado General Assembly passed the Minor Conversion Therapy Law (MCTL), which prohibits licensed counselors and mental health professionals from subjecting minors to “conversion therapy,” understood as the attempted conversion of a person’s sexual orientation or gender identity to align with heterosexual norms. Chiles, who is a practicing Christian, contends that although she does not try to “convert” her clients, she does try to help them with objectives that may include “seeking to reduce or eliminate unwanted sexual attractions” or becoming more comfortable with their bodies. Chiles filed a lawsuit in Colorado, asking a federal court to block the state from enforcing the conversion therapy ban against her.

During oral arguments, a majority of the justices seemed to agree with the counselor, Kaley Chiles, that the ban discriminates against her based on the views that she expresses in her therapy. But several justices suggested that, rather than striking the law down outright, the court should send the case back to the lower courts for them to take a closer look at whether the law passes constitutional muster.

Louisiana v. Callais

Argued on October 10, 2025. In 2022 a federal district court ordered the Louisiana state legislature to redraw the congressional district map it had created after the national census of 2020, on the ground that the map violated Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act by effectively limiting the voting power of the state’s Black population. In this map, only one of the state’s six congressional districts contained a Black majority while approximately one-third of the state’s population is Black.

The state’s legislature in 2024 created a new map with two Black-majority districts. Later that year, however, another district court in the state ruled that the creation of the second Black district was an act of racial gerrymandering in violation of the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, and it ordered the state legislature not to use the map in the 2024 election. The question in this case is “whether intentionally creating a second majority-minority district to comply with the Voting Rights Act itself violates the Fourteenth or Fifteenth Amendments.”

Learning Resources v. Trump

To be argued on November 5, 2025. In February and April 2025, President Donald Trump issued a series of executive orders that together imposed tariffs on products imported from nearly all other countries. In the orders themselves President Trump claimed that as president of the United States he possessed the authority to impose tariffs under a set of laws including the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (IEEPA) of 1977.

In the first of two groups of executive orders, Trump imposed what came to be known as trafficking tariffs upon Canada, Mexico, and China for having failed to “stem the tide” of “illicit drugs” and upon Mexico for “unlawful migration” into the United States.” In a second and much larger group, Trump imposed reciprocal tariffs of 10 to 50 percent upon countries throughout the world.

In April, two Illinois-based educational child-toy companies, Learning Resources, Inc. and hand2mind, whose products were made in other countries, filed suit in the United States Court for the District of Columbia, arguing that the IEEPA did not authorize the president to impose tariffs and requesting a preliminary injunction of Trump’s orders. In May the district court agreed with the plaintiffs that the IEEPA did not grant Trump the power to impose unlimited tariffs at will and issued a preliminary injunction. The Supreme Court granted Trump’s request for an expedited review of the CFC’s decision, scheduling oral arguments for November 5, 2025. The question presented in the case is: “whether IEEPA authorizes the President to impose tariffs.”

Little v. Hecox

Not yet scheduled for argument. In March 2020 the Idaho state legislature passed the Fairness in Women’s Sports Act, which prohibited boys and men who identify as women from participating in female sporting events at Idaho public schools and universities. In April 2020 Lindsey Hecox and others challenged the Idaho law in federal district court, arguing that it violated both Title IX of the 1972 Federal Education Amendments, and the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. The district court enjoined the law’s enforcement pending its own decision. After the Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit upheld the district court’s injunction on the basis of the equal protection clause, the state of Idaho filed a petition for review with the Supreme Court, which was granted in July 2025.

On the same day, the Court also agreed to hear a parallel case from another state, West Virginia v. B.J.P.. The question presented in Little v. Hecox is: “whether laws that seek to protect women’s and girls’ sports by limiting participation to women and girls based on sex violate the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.” The questions presented in West Virginia v. B.J.P. are: “whether Title IX prevents a state from consistently designating girls’ and boys’ sports teams based on biological sex determined at birth” and “whether the Equal Protection Clause prevents a state from offering separate boys’ and girls’ sports teams based on biological sex determined at birth.”

WELL DONE, GOOD AND FAITHFUL SERVANT!

Charles James Kirk

(October 14, 1993 – September 10, 2025)

Wikipedia: "Was an American far-right political activist, author, and media personality."

New York Times: "The charismatic founder of the nation's pre-eminent right-wing youth activist group,..."

National Public Radio: "Charlie Kirk, the right-wing activist and podcaster,..."

NBC News: "Kirk was a co-founder of Turning Point USA, the host of a popular podcast and a staunch ally of President Donald Trump."

ABC News: Charlie Kirk: "the founder of the conservative youth activist organization Turning Point USA,..."

CBS News: "Right-wing activist Charlie Kirk,..."

Fox News: "Conservative activist Charlie Kirk,..."

These are merely shallow platitudes about who Charlie Kirk is. If you use the above reference sources to educate yourself on who this man actually is, you would be profoundly uninformed. The picture painted of Charlie may be that of a charismatic, far-right, or influential right-wing activist, founder of a conservative youth activist organization, and popular podcaster and media personality.

While all of these descriptors are true, to capture the essence of who Charlie is, we must speak specifically to his spiritual beliefs and biblical worldview. While an assassin's bullet indeed culminated in Charlie's physical death, he was martyred, not murdered. You may kill the messenger, but you cannot kill the message.

And I will always speak of Charlie in the present tense because he is joyfully alive in the Kingdom of Heaven and forever serving the one true GOD and his LORD and SAVIOR, Jesus Christ. Charlie is absent from the body, but at home with the LORD.

This assassination is being labeled as politically motivated. That is a lie. It was a spiritual assassination. Charlie was not executed for being conservative. He was executed for the beliefs that he held, which, rightfully so, influenced his courageous behavior and steadfast belief system.

Charlie is a Christian who loves the Word of God, and he shares the gospel of Jesus Christ with anyone who will listen with an open heart. He considers his mission on Earth to make Heaven crowded. He wanted to bring many repentant sinners to Jesus so that they, too, could spend eternity with the loving God who created them. And he did. Charlie's pastor says, "In the absence of courage, truth is an orphan." The Holy Spirit indwells Charlie and provisions him with courage; therefore, truth has a faithful protector.

Charlie is a faithful and loving husband and the father of two beautiful children. He believes that the nuclear family is the essential element of a joy-filled life and a healthy culture. He wants everyone to find the same peace and comfort that he did as a moral man emulating Jesus.

So, why does no one call out this killing for what it is? Am I supposed to believe that this is just another act of violence driven by the failure of the mental health community, or the never-ending rhetoric of politicians and media pundits dehumanizing whomever they choose to be "the target of the day?" I'm not buying it, and I'm not afraid to call it out for what it is, either.

It's not about Charlie's political views or the truth he speaks; it's about our culture needing to hear his message of salvation through Jesus Christ. That had to be stopped. He is a spokesman for the greatest gift ever given to mankind, Jesus. We are in a spiritual war between the forces of good and evil. We need more men like Charlie. His bold declaration of faith is his legacy. When the essence of who he is is shared with others, it will be clearly spelled out: F-A-I-T-H.

We are told that this is a tragedy. It is indeed heartbreaking and painful, but it is not a tragedy. A soulless man looking through the scope of a high-powered rifle can see his target in extreme detail. He can watch his target closely. He can see Charlie's eyes blink and his lips move. He can see Charlie's chest heave with every living breath he takes. Animated expression is clear. Yet, the assassin is prepared to rob a man he doesn't even know of everything he has in this life and take him away from all who love him with one remorseless squeeze of the trigger. He steadies himself and fires.

This is not a tragedy. If Charlie had been killed in an accident en route to his last debate, that would have been a tragedy. If a pitiless murderer intentionally executes an innocent man, that is evil in its purest form. We must acknowledge that evil is motivated by conscious intent, which differs entirely from the spontaneous chaos of tragedy.

True evil is a reality, and it's not a mental health issue; it's a spiritual issue. The corruption that has rotted the heart of a human being creates the possibility that they will not hesitate to deprive anyone of life. It's easy to hurt others when you are unfeeling.

It's time to acknowledge the elephant in the room, or more appropriately, the elephant not in the room. What changes have occurred over time in our country? There have always been guns and those willing to use them for mayhem. Whom have we drifted away from as a culture?

SPOILER ALERT: It is GOD.

He is no longer welcome in the room. Nor in school, on sports fields, or in other public venues, for that matter. Political discourse has become a blood sport. Character assassination is the weapon of choice. Identity politics has replaced individual self-identity. Political views now estrange friends and families. Critical thinking and personal responsibility seem no longer in vogue.

News You Can Use

That Fundraiser!

I was absolutely amazed! My compliments to the leadership TEAM that pulled off a most successful night. I feel blessed to have 'landed' in such a talented group of ladies in the Canyon Lake Republican Women. I looked around the room at The Chandelier and saw so much pride on the faces of all the members who had even a small part in the event. Imagine sharing that excitement with other women in our communities!

Our President, Jan Hunt, shared with me a fabulous opportunity to learn how to do that focused on training (she sent me a text from NFRW). We have the opportunity (and responsibility) to grow our ranks and the tools to make that happen through the Leadership Institute and their Women's Leadership Program. We all know the phrase "Together Everyone Achieves More" (TEAM), so let's put that phrase to work for us. I have signed up to receive more information at www.LeadershipInstitute.org/WomenLead.

Their website is correct; women are force multipliers. We DO show up and volunteer, organize, and fundraise, yet women remain under-recruited, and underprepared in the political sphere. The Women's Leadership Program equips conservative women with the skills to turn their principles into action, and win.

Your leadership TEAM in CLRW encourages you to sign up to receive more information about this program to facilitate GROWTH within our club. Let's expand our network of conservative women, get more women involved on our committees, invite them to join us and become leaders themselves!

Remember, when you join a TEAM, everyone achieves more.

Red Gala Success!

Carolyn Besselman

What an evening! The glitter and glitz were on display at The Chandelier in Gruene. What an evening it was. The red carpet was rolled out as the guests showed up in their finest “glammed” outfits. Stacey Schieffelin, from America First Policy Institute, gave a rousing talk on what AMFP actually does and how much women are having an input into policy making in Washington D.C.

Following her speech, Pam Sullivan, our very talented Fundraiser VP, along with Todd Frisk, Tech “guru” extraordinaire, put on a surprise Academy Award segment, honoring some of our outstanding members. It was entertaining to say the least.

Our club is so grateful for all the help from sister (TFRW) Texas Federation of Republican Women’s clubs, donors and members. Our “Hollywood Diva” helpers for the evening were Anita Valdez, Comal County Republican Party Chair, and Kris Coons, Bexar County Republican Party Chair.

Things went very smoothly and we made money! It is because of all of our volunteers. We will be needing others to help with fundraising next year, so think about volunteering do a little bit or a lot. You just have to let us know! So until next year...
